2. A written of comply wi		ritten opinion cannot be drawn due to the failure of the nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence listing to uply with the Standard provided for in Annex C of the Administrative Instructions:
		the written form has not been furnished or does not comply with the Standard.
		the computer readable form has not been furnished or does not comply with the Standard.

Re Item III

Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

- The application does not meet the requirements of Article 6 PCT, because claims 1-36 in their entity do not meet the requirement of conciseness:
- 1.1 According to Rule 6.1(a) PCT, the number of claims shall be reasonable in consideration of the nature of the invention claimed. Although claims 1, 9, and 14 have been drafted as separate, independent method claims, they relate effectively to the same subject-matter and differ from each other only with regard to the definition of the subject-matter for which protection is sought. In particular, claim 9 contains all the technical features of claim 1. The subject-matter of claim 14 differs from the scope of claim 1 only in that a "method of transmission" is disclosed instead of a "method of interoperability". However, the term " method of interoperability" is considered as comprising a method of transmission, since no interoperability in communication schemes would be applicable without transmission of data.
- 1.2 Independent system claims 19, 27, and 32 correspond to method claims 1, 9, and 14. Therefore, the same objections than for the latter claims apply also for claims 19, 27, and 32.
- 1.3 In view of the above objection it is not at present practicable to carry out a full examination. The applicant is therefore requested to file an amended set of claims.
- When drafting an amended set of claims, an amended claims could be based on the wording of independent claim 9 because it appears to represent best the nature of the invention for which protection is sought.
